3. Applicants agree to meet all deadlines and requirements specified by IAF-PRGMEA, and understand that late or invalid submissions will not be accepted.
4. Applicants understand that they can be disqualified by IAF-PRGMEA at any time at IAF-PRGMEA' final discretion for failing to meet the deadlines, criteria, quality or entry requirements or for any another reason as determined by IAF-PRGMEA.
5. Applicants confirm that all works submitted are original and will be created entirely themselves. Applicants also confirm that their designs have not yet been seen in public. Applicants understand that IAF-PRGMEA will assume no liability for the work they have submitted, accusations of plagiarism, copyright issues, or any intellectual property rights issues related to the entries and work submitted by any third party. The applicants take sole responsibility and they shall fully indemnify IAF-PRGMEA for any loss or damages incurred as a result of such claims. Applicants understand that in this case their admission to the competition shall be terminated and any winning titles will be revoked.
6. Applicants understand that all decisions made by the judging panels and IAF-PRGMEA are final. Applicants also understand that IAF-PRGMEA' employees and the judges will not enter into any disputes or discussions from applicants on this matter.
7. Applicants understand and agree that IAF-PRGMEA is free to use all of their works, photos and interviews submitted by the applicants associated with their IAF-PRGMEA Design Award collections for promotion, marketing and for display purposes without any prior consent from the applicants.
8. Applicants understand that IAF-PRGMEA reserves the right to limit, refuse or withdraw any applicant at any stage of the competition if they are found to have violated any of the terms and conditions of entry listed herein.
9. Applicants understand that IAF-PRGMEA shall keep all personal information about the applicant confidential, unless with prior agreement from the applicant, and that their personal contact details will be used solely for the purposes of the IAF-PRGMEA Design Award 2019 and IAF-PRGMEA, unless otherwise agreed in advance with the applicant.
10. Applicants understand that IAF-PRGMEA' representatives may undertake media interviews and express their own views of the applicant and their work during and after the grand final of the competition.
11. Applicants understand that IAF-PRGMEA is committed to the elimination of all forms of discrimination to ensure that no applicant receives less favorable treatment because of age, color, disability, gender, marriage and civil partnership, nationality, national or ethnic origin, politics, race, religion or belief.

12. Applicants understand that IAF-PRGMEA reserves the right to change or cancel the scheduled date(s).
13. Applicants understand that IAF-PRGMEA reserves the right to change the prize(s) without prior notice.
14. Applicants understand that IAF-PRGMEA may accept and/or reject any application at its sole discretion.
15. Applicants declare that all of their details provided for any time during the competition cycle are true and correct.
16. Finalists understand that they will always own the copyright of both the designs and the finished garments of their Single-outfit competition collection. They understand that IAF-PRGMEA cannot sell the designs and/or the finished garments. However, IAF-PRGMEA will assume no liability for plagiarism, copyright issues, or any intellectual property rights issues of their designs and finished garments. They understand that IAF-PRGMEA will assume no liability for the work the finalist has submitted, accusations of plagiarism, copyright issues, or any intellectual property rights issues related to the entries and work submitted by any third party. The finalist takes sole responsibility and they shall fully indemnify IAF-PRGMEA for any loss or damages as a result of such claims. The finalist understands that in this situation their admission to the competition shall be terminated and any winning titles will be revoked.
17. Finalists understand that IAF-PRGMEA determines and has final say on all the creative input for the presentation of the finalists' collection through the fashion shoot, grand finale, and exhibitions including styling, makeup, hair, models, music, photography and filming.
18. Finalists understand that if they win a prize(s), including but not limited to first prize and runners up prize, that they must observe and comply with the conditions and schedules in relations to the prizes as set out in the prize page. Finalists agree that these schedules are possible for them to adhere to should they win.
19. Finalists understand that IAF-PRGMEA owns the copyright of all photos and videos taken of the finalists and their collection during the competition and IAF-PRGMEA is entitled, without limitation, to use and reproduce these materials for purposes including for promotion, marketing, obtaining sponsorship and competition organization indefinitely. Finalists understand that no copyright fees shall be paid to them at any stage.
20. Finalists understand that IAF-PRGMEA has the rights to use four out of the five of their collection outfits and shall use these for appropriate educational and promotional use after the competition, including but not limited to exhibitions, fashion shoots and educational purposes. IAF-PRGMEA will select the four outfits to keep for these aforementioned purposes. Finalists understand that they will be credited for the design and creation of such outfits if and when my outfits are displayed after the competition's completion.
21. Finalists understand that IAF-PRGMEA will not be held responsible for any damages or loss to their competition outfits suffered or incurred during and after the competition.
22. Applicants must submit three ready to wear outfit illustrations with technical drawing (front and back) based on one or more of the sustainable design techniques. No complete outfits are required to be submitted at the open application stage.
23. Each entire outfit must be made of one or more pieces that cover a models upper and lower body and can include garments such as tops, bottoms, jackets and coats. Shoes and accessories are not required to be designed but will need to be provided to accompany the outfit should the participant reach the final.

24. The product must consist of at least 50% in weight of textile waste. Participants should provide information about their textile waste selection for their outfit including the type of fibre, type of textile and sources must also be provided. Participants are required to provide clear photographs of the original textile material before any cutting or alteration.
25. Applicants must submit four recent photographs of original finished garments from their portfolio. These are NOT the competition designs but are required to demonstrate the skill and experience of all participation fashion designers.
26. No changes to the artwork or the textile selections is permitted after submission unless prior approval by the IAF-PRGMEA has been given.
27. Applicants also need to provide a statement about their designs, sustainable strategies and their aspiration to become a sustainable designer. Following the submission, the IAF-PRGMEA team may contact applicants for further information such as verification of professional experience and eligibility.
28. Upon reaching the final round, the IAF-PRGMEA team will inform the ten finalists about their success individually before public announcement.
29. If a participant is shortlisted for the final round, they are required to participate in a series of industrial trips depending on their city of origin. They will have the opportunity to learn more about the sustainable fashion strategies and evaluate the life cycle of their final outfit.
30. After the international judges' assessment at the Gala Dinner, the winners of the IAF-PRGMEA Global Fashion Award and Runner's up award will be announced.
